

POLICE ARREST 41 AS MOTOR LAW VIOLATORS

MAJORITY OF DRIVERS FACE
CHARGE OF SPEEDING.

KINNEY SOUNDS WARNING

Spurred to greater activity by some recent remarks by Jerry Kinney, chief of police, and Claude Johnson, lieutenant in charge of traffic, the police motorcycle squad rounded up forty-one automobile drivers during the week-end for alleged violations of the motor vehicle laws. Thirty-two of the drivers are charged with speeding.

"There is only one way to reduce the number of street accidents that have been occurring recently and that is to put a stop to this epidemic of speed mania and reckless driving," said Chief Kinney. "The motor vehicle laws are going to be obeyed in Indianapolis if policemen have to fill the courtroom every day with violators. Persons who drive automobiles might just as well understand this now and save themselves a lot of unnecessary trouble and expense."

Driving Past Street Cars.

Henry Barringer, 417 East Nineteenth street, and George H. Clark, 2251 North Meridian street, were arrested for driving past street cars when passengers were being discharged, and George Thompson, 436 North Illinois street; Benjamin Rayborn, 40 North Blake street, and Harry Clark, 1901 Bloyd avenue, were slated for violating the muffler law.

Those charged with parking on the wrong side of the street gave their names as Earl Stell, 2025 College avenue; Quincey Meyers, 2028 North Meridian street; John Malone, 1510 North Senate avenue, and Charles Innis, 602 Lexington avenue.

Among those arrested for speeding was Gaston Chevrolet, race driver, who was in Indianapolis, the guest of his brother, Arthur Chevrolet, proprietor of a garage at 731 North Illinois street. Chevrolet was arrested by motorcycle policeman Pressley in North Capitol avenue, between Walnut and Michigan streets. He was said to have been driving at the rate of thirty-one miles an hour.
